June 14 to 24, 2019
Dear Friends,

In the spirit of our evolving summer tour tradition, I recommend to you this Arctic voyage as an experience of learning and wonder true to the Haverfordian ideal of adventurous discovery. Throughout this trip you will enjoy ample opportunity to engage in conversations that deepen old friendships and forge new ones, while drawing inspiration from insights offered by the extraordinary leader of the BiCo Environmental Studies Program, Helen White. Whether you have already seen in person the High Arctic’s pristine fjords, glimmering glaciers and noble wildlife, or this is your first journey there, I can think of no better guide to this part of the world than Helen, whose imagination and eloquence will add special brilliance to this luminous landscape.

Bon voyage!

Study Leader Helen White

Helen White is an Associate Professor of Chemistry and Environmental Studies, Chair of Environmental Studies, and Director of the Koshland Integrated Natural Sciences Center at Haverford College. Her research interests examine the persistence of human-derived compounds in the marine environment and how chemical structure, physical associations and bioavailability determine their cycling and fate. Dr. White's lab has contributed to the understanding of the impacts of petroleum from the 2010 BP Deepwater Horizon incident. White has received research grants from the National Science Foundation, Gulf of Mexico Research Initiative, American Chemical Society and the National Academies of Science, Engineering and Medicine. White has received the Henry Dreyfus Teacher-Scholar Award, the Lindback Distinguished Teaching Award and an Innovation in Teaching Award. After receiving her Masters in Chemistry from the University of Sussex, UK, she earned a Ph.D. in Chemical Oceanography from MIT and the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution. Before joining the Haverford faculty, Dr. White completed the Microbial Science Initiative Postdoctoral Fellowship at Harvard University.
What it’s really like to be on “Top of the World”

Luminous cobalt-blue glaciers; snow-covered, towering mountainous landscapes; pristine fjords; massive sheets of ice; incredible, uniquely shaped icebergs; and an abundance of wildlife—these wondrous sights will unfold around you on this once-in-a-lifetime expedition into the untouched Arctic’s remote Svalbard archipelago. Be on the lookout for multiple species of whales, bearded seals and long-toothed walruses lazing on the ice; nimble Arctic foxes; graceful Svalbard reindeer grazing on the Arctic’s lush tundra; and Arctic terns and fulmar gliding to and from cliffs. Observe the King of the Arctic—the iconic polar bear—in its natural habitat, hunting seals and traveling over sea ice. The ethereal glow of the Midnight Sun will enhance the true beauty of this extraordinary archipelago as you follow in the footsteps of polar pioneers before you in their quest to reach the “Top of the World.”

Longyearbyen, Svalbard, Norway

Your Arctic Expedition launches in the small port town of Longyearbyen, the Norwegian Svalbard archipelago’s capital and, at 78 degrees North latitude, approximately 650 miles from the North Pole. Enjoy a glimpse of daily life here in the Longyearbyen Culture House before embarking L’Austral.

Hornsund/Samarin Glacier

An expert naturalist-led excursion navigates through slow-drifting ice by Zodiac in the pristine bay of Burgerbukta to reach the majestic Samarin Glacier. A walk along the glacier examines firsthand its dramatic terrain, frequented by seabirds such as black-legged kittiwakes and Brünnich’s guillemots. Discover the perfect snapshot of miniature Arctic wildflowers.

Native to the Arctic tundra biome, Arctic foxes use their acute hearing to locate prey precisely.
Bellsund
In the bell-shaped sound of Bellsund, surrounded by soaring, snow-covered peaks, anchor off Calypsobyen, part of Sør-Spitsbergen, Norway’s largest national park. Relics of the former coal mining settlement offer a glimpse into its history. Expert naturalists accompany you through Calypsobyen’s intriguing ecosystem, where nimble Arctic foxes thrive.

Continue to Camp Millar, a former gold mining base and now a favored grazing spot for the Svalbard reindeer. Observe the graceful reindeer, their newborn calves and the large resident colony of auks.

Cruising the Arctic Ice Pack
Approach the Arctic Ice Pack at the approximate latitude of 80 degrees North. Survey expansive sea ice for the King of the Arctic—the polar bear. Ice habitats are crucial for this endangered mammal’s hunting and breeding.

Listen for bearded seals’ trilling and look for them sunning on the ice, especially during June’s molting season.
Be among the few to view expansive, breathtaking Arctic ice, the oldest of which appears the darkest blue.

Keep a keen eye out for these ivory-furred creatures and scan the cobalt-blue waters for bowhead and beluga whales, often spotted swimming in pods. Woodfjorden showcases the Arctic’s contrasts—icy, glacier-fronted shores are juxtaposed against the surrounding red sandstone mountains. Cruise to the startlingly beautiful Monaco Glacier and listen for the sound of white thunder as the tidewater glaciers calve into the ocean.

Your expert naturalist guides lead an adventurous walk around protected Raudfjorden, amidst Svalbard poppies. Look for rare seabirds, such as pink-footed geese, black-legged kittiwakes and glaucous gulls.

Enjoy a Zodiac excursion to the former bustling, 17th-century Dutch whaling station of Smeerenburgbreen, today a prized resting shore for long-toothed walruses.

Discover the hub of scientific exploration, Ny-Ålesund, one of the world’s northernmost settlements and host to 16 international research stations. In Ny-Ålesund, a popular refuge for ringed and bearded seals, observe these mammals resting in their natural habitats.

An excursion by Zodiac through the inlet of Kongsfjorden takes you to the tidewater Kongsbreen (King’s Glacier), a nesting ground for waterbirds, barnacle geese, common and king elders, long-tailed ducks, purple sandpipers, Atlantic puffins and snow buntings.

Left: Scan the fjords for humpback whales migrating to the Arctic’s cooler waters during the northern summer to give birth.

EXPERT EXPEDITION TEAM

An Arctic Expedition Team of seasoned naturalists, who have studied and traveled extensively in the remote Arctic, accompany you throughout your voyage. The team’s collaborative efforts, experience, particular interest in the Arctic’s ecosystems and enthusiasm for sharing their knowledge make them exceptionally well-suited to lead your Arctic Expedition under the Midnight Sun.
